Official business calls to non-DoD agencies with the metropolitan area can be made by dialing "99" and the full seven-digit number.

d. Octel Voice Messaging System

(1) BUMED's voice mail system is administered and maintained by the TSCO. The system administrator adds and deletes mailboxes, provides training to users, and performs systems maintenance.

(2) BUMED's concern for its customers is reflected in the following policies about voice mail. (Note: for these policies, normal working hours are considered 0700-1630 weekdays; non-working hours are 1630-0700 weekends and holidays). During working hours, callers will always be able to speak with a person if they desire. All mailboxes must have a call coverage person. This operator is a person in the same call-coverage path assigned to answer telephones. Persons in these positions may use the voice processing features of the system, including sending group messages or receiving voice messages from other voice mail users. However, to ensure that callers can always reach a person during normal working hours, persons in these phone-answering positions may not forward to voice mail during business hours.

(3) Leadership in each code must ensure that any such position designated to fulfill these "assist during the absence of" responsibilities is fully staffed during core hours.

(4) You can select from one of the following recommended message formats:
